

AMPLIFYCHANGE

Opportunity grant

Opportunity grants aim to nurture and encourage innovative ideas and approaches on SRHR advocacy in new contexts. They allow local, small civil society and grassroots organisations to drive the advocacy agenda and ensure change happens.

For this Opportunity grant call, AmplifyChange seeks to fund civil society organisations that aim to implement projects focusing on sexual and reproductive health rights. The duration of an Opportunity grant can be 18 or 24 months. This funding round is open for applications up to £75,000 GBP. We encourage you to be realistic and apply for the amount that is best for your organisation and project.

Watch our guidance webinar

We hosted a webinar for Opportunity grant applicants on 3 April 2023. During the webinar, we give a brief introduction of AmplifyChange and cover the rules and eligibility criteria for Opportunity grants, including a Q&A session at the end.

Rules and eligibility

Only civil society organisations from the Global South are eligible to apply. Your organisation must be located in, and implementing a project in one of Amplify Change's eligible countries.

Applicants must also be small to medium sized organisations with an average annual expenditure over the past two years of less than £200,000 per year. For example, if your expenditure in 2021 was £100,000 GBP, and in 2022 it was £350,000, the average would be £225,000 – this would mean you would not be eligible to apply. You will be asked to submit evidence for your expenditure values. This could be an audited report or a profit and loss statement.

We recognise the broad scope of civil society and the wide range of organisations, actors and coalitions it encompasses. Civil Society Organisations can include:

- Community groups
- Youth Groups
- Non-governmental organisations
- Indigenous groups
- Charitable organisations
- Faith-based organisations
- Research institutes
- Social enterprise groups
- Public-private partnerships
- Communications and media groups
- Professional associations

If you don't feel you identify with any of the above groups, please contact us at enquire@amplifychange.org

International Non-Governmental Organisations based in the Global North and UN agencies are not eligible to lead an Opportunity Grant proposal.

AmplifyChange supports grassroots groups that find it difficult to access funding, including unregistered groups. We understand that it may not be possible for your group to register officially as an organisation or to have your own bank account if your application is successful. We will either support you to get registered and open a bank account or support you to identify a fiscal sponsor – an organisation that is prepared and able to help manage grant funds on your behalf.

We will conduct due diligence and financial assessments on your organisation and on the sponsoring organisation.

What are we looking for

The purpose of this Opportunity grant call is to fund civil society organisations, support their advocacy work, and strengthen them so they can bring about positive change in one of the AmplifyChange priority themes or an intersection or combination of themes:

- Eliminating gender-based violence, including sexual violence, female genital mutilation/cutting (FGM/C) and child marriage
- Increasing safe abortion choices
- Challenging stigma and discrimination, attitudes and laws that undermine human rights, including based on gender or sexual orientation of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex (LGBTI) individuals
- Improving sexual health of young people and girls, including comprehensive sexuality education (CSE), promoting menstrual health and youth-friendly service delivery
- Increasing access to comprehensive sexual and reproductive health services for poor, vulnerable and marginalised people

AmplifyChange is committed to supporting pleasure-inclusive sexual health and sex positivity within SRHR. We are endorsers of The Pleasure Principles, which have taken evidence and best practice from pleasure-based sexual health interventions and created a set of principles to follow for effective implementation. We are happy to receive applications from organisations who wish to include pleasure-inclusive and pleasure-based approaches to their projects addressing one or more of our five priority themes above. Read more information about pleasure-based SRHR at The Pleasure Project's website.

It is important that applicants think strategically about their local movements and how they will make the most effective contribution to change. Applications must respond to one or more of our outcome areas in our Theory of Change:

- Increasing individual awareness of SRHR as human rights
- Improving access to SRHR resources, information & services
- Transforming social norms
- Changing policies & laws
- Building stronger, more inclusive movements for SRHR

AmplifyChange funds advocacy. We are focused on achieving long-term, sustainable change, however we recognise that collective actions are the best way to achieve change, so understanding how you connect to the wider movement and being able to demonstrate how you are working towards the same change is critical.

AmplifyChange does not support organisations seeking to deliver services unless they contribute to advocacy and movement building for sustainable gains to SRHR.

We work as a challenge fund, and applications are considered on a competitive basis. We aim to be flexible in our funding approach so that smaller and new organisations can access our funding, but we do expect a project to have promising potential to achieve meaningful change.

How do I improve my chances of success?

We expect to receive a large volume of applications during this call and will be able to fund approximately 100 grants. We therefore encourage all applicants to consider the following guidance carefully in order to give yourself the best chance of success:

For a better chance of receiving funding, an application should:

- Demonstrate a clear understanding of the problem you seek to address in the local context, where possible including evidence of the issue at the local level.
- Include clear and realistic objectives
- Articulate a well thought-out and feasible pathway to achieve change (with consideration of AmplifyChange's outcome areas)
- Identify and work with key influencers and the authorities that have the power to bring about positive change
- Show an understanding of related work going on in the same setting and articulate why this project is needed to compliment it.
- Respect confidentiality and place the safety and security of communities at the centre of its initiative
- Consider some of the challenges you might face during the project and let us know how you think you may overcome them
- Identify any significant gaps in the organisation's technical and / or institutional capacity and outline how these gaps will be addressed

We are particularly interested to fund projects that:

- Are submitted by small, grassroots organisations that find it challenging to access funding
- Aim to address the root causes and drivers of discriminatory social norms and inequitable power relations
- Pilot a new idea or innovative approach and to learn lessons about what is effective
- Implementing a promising practice that have shown initial success
- Empower marginalised groups to advocate for their rights and access to services
- Work towards the development, improvement and effective implementation of laws and policies, including by-laws

We will not fund applications that:

- Are vague or lacking in specific detail
- Include only ambiguous awareness-raising or 'sensitisation' activities without a clear influencing and follow-up strategy*
- Do not include any advocacy
- Are not realistic, feasible within the timeframe or budget
- Do not demonstrate a convincing strategy to achieve meaningful change
- Do not show any understanding of how this work will compliment other existing work; for example, in the same geographical area or around the same thematic issue.

*We have received many applications that reference 'sensitisation', 'awareness raising' 'capacity building' and 'meetings' -if these terms are used in an application, they must be backed up with context and plans. Including justifying why you think these approaches are needed and likely to be effective.

During application review, we will be using the following criteria to help with our decision making in the final stages:

- Clear articulation of the specific needs of the current SRHR context in the chosen country or region, and the corresponding approach of the project
- Demonstrable potential of project to add-value to the SRHR sector and respond to the specific needs of the current SRHR context in the chosen country or region

High potential for having a positive impact towards improving SRHR for all.

- We will not award more than 10% of the available funds to any one country

Recommendations will be provided to the AmplifyChange Board of Directors for their deliberation. The Board's decisions are final.

AmplifyChange reserves the right to balance recommended applications based on the wider AmplifyChange portfolio considering SRHR needs and geography in line with our benchmarks and results framework.

Guides and films

How do I write a good application?

We asked our Technical Review Panel (TRP) to provide their top-tips for writing a strong application. Watch the film below and download the PDF guide to see their advice.

For more help to develop your proposal, please review our Knowledge section of our website. It includes guidance on writing applications, as well as support on how to address our key outcome areas.

Prior to awarding a grant, if your application is recommended for funding, your organisation will undergo an assessment to verify your ability to manage the funds. This assessment is not a test but will enable us to set some organisational strengthening goals to achieve during the grant. You will also have the opportunity to revisit the application and update the proposal to ensure it is still relevant. You can learn more about our financial requirements and best practices for strengthening your organisation in our Building Blocks Handbook.
